LEAN CATTLE FEEDER TOUR FOR VISITORS

Results of Various Rations
Methods Will Be Studied
In County.

On Wednesday, March 20, cattle feeders from Pickaway-co will assemble at the Pickaway-co Farm bureau to meet a number of visiting delegations who are planning to come to the county on that day for the Steer Feeders tour. Fourteen Pickaway-co feeders have been cooperating with County agent H. S. Lewis during the past winter in keeping a feeder record in their methods employed in feeding their cattle, so that the different methods employed might be checked in determining the most economic systems of cattle feeding under Pickaway-co conditions.

These cattle will all be weighed and the record calculated on Monday and Tuesday, March 18-19. The records will be summarized and mimeographed copies of the results will be available for distribution during the tour on Wednesday, March 20. These records will represent a total of 1000 cattle. The tour will start from the Farm Bureau home in Circleville promptly at 12:15 o'clock.

RATIONS COMPARED

The first stop will be made at the farm of John Fry, Jr., on the Jackson Pike, north-west of Circleville. The tourists shall view 56 head of Hereford, long yearlings and 30 head of Hereford calves. The yearlings are on full feed oflage, shocked corn and whole soy beans, the soy beans replacing cotton seed and oil meal. This demonstration will be of particular interest from that standpoint.

THE SECOND STOP

The second stop will be made at the farm of John Fry, Jr., on the Jackson Pike, north-west of Circleville. The tourists shall view 56 head of Hereford, long yearlings and 30 head of Hereford calves. The yearlings are on full feed oflage, shocked corn and whole soy beans, the soy beans replacing cotton seed and oil meal. This demonstration will be of particular interest from that standpoint.

THE THIRD STOP

The third stop will be made at the farm of John Fry, Jr., on the Jackson Pike, north-west of Circleville. The tourists shall view 56 head of Hereford, long yearlings and 30 head of Hereford calves. The yearlings are on full feed oflage, shocked corn and whole soy beans, the soy beans replacing cotton seed and oil meal. This demonstration will be of particular interest from that standpoint.

BANQUET ARRANGED

The feeders at each stop will explain the methods which they have followed and the cattle will be a demonstration of the results. The tour of inspection will wind around 4:30 p. m. then the Cattle Feeders banquet will be served at the Parish house on W. Main-st. in Circleville. The banquet will be served at 6:30 p. m. and will be a very good one. The feeders at each stop will explain the methods which they have followed and the cattle will be a demonstration of the results. PICKAWAY-CO FEEDERS

Pickaway-co feeders will have a number of visitors from surrounding counties. The beef production of Pickaway-co represents close to 10 percent of local livestock income. The feeding demonstrations offer a very practical comparison under farm conditions of those methods of feeding which afford the greater net profit from the feeding enterprises.

PUBLISHER IS HEAD

OF $100,000 FIRM

Arthur A. Hoopingarner, president of The Circleville Publishing Co., has organized a $100,000 corporation, known as the Chestnut Equipment Co., to manufacture and market a talking motion picture device invented by a Dover, O. man.

Hoopingarner is president of the company.

The device, known as the Chestnut System, will be installed in several northern Ohio theaters this month. The company expects to manufacture at the rate of 25 a week.

E. Theodore McCoy of Durham, N. C., was a business visitor in Circleville Monday.

ASKS AID FOR CARGO MARINE

Sen. Jones Wants Industry and Labor To Push U. S.
On Seas.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—A conference of representatives of American industry and labor to decide upon a policy for the building of a great cargo merchant marine was proposed today by Sen. Wesley L. Jones (R) of Washington, co-author of the Jones-White shipping act.

Congress having determined upon a policy to build up the passenger merchant marine, there is now a crying need that the country turn its attention to vessels which will carry American commerce overseas, he said.

"I feel that we need to determine as quickly as possible what the country will do with reference to cargo ships," said Sen. Jones. "We must determine whether we will provide ample encouragement for private operators to maintain routes or whether the government will have to do it."

"I hope that the shipping interests of the nation will get together during the summer and fall, determine upon a policy and be ready to lay their plans before congress for consideration at the next regular session."

"I would like to see representatives of industry, of agriculture or labor be brought together in such a conference and talk over frankly and fully what should be done for this branch of the merchant marine."

ADmits KILLING

WIFE IN QUARREL

CINCINNATI, O., March 11.—"I am ready to pay the penalty," David Price, 27, said today when he broke down and confessed to the shooting of his wife, Olla Ball Price, 19, when he previously stated had committed suicide.

"I was drunk," the young husband declared. "We were quarreling when I pulled out a pistol and shot her. I didn't know what I was doing."

This ended 11 months of marital strife, according to neighbors. They said Price and his wife had quarreled frequently.

The shooting occurred at their apartment-home here last night. Price, who at first told police that his wife had shot herself, confessed after an all night grilling.

FINED $100, COSTS

Sherman Lowery, Huston-st., was arrested Sunday night in Pearl alley by Officers Fitzpatrick and McManamy on a charge of possessing a pint of whisky. Lowery pleaded guilty when arraigned Monday morning before Mayor B. T. Hedges and was fined $100 and costs which he made arrangements to pay.

Pickaway-co Hog Raisers Instructed In Preventing Pork Production Loss

Disease and Rough Handling
Make Big Inroads Upon Profits.

Pickaway-co farmers receive 26.2 percent of their farm income through the production and marketing of hogs. This represents approximately 72 percent of the total livestock sold for meat purposes. With the hog cycle on the upward trend, it is only natural that the farmer become more enthusiastic in his support of the "mortgage lifter."

Last week, County Agent H. S. Lewis arranged a series of meetings with the hog men of the county for the purpose of discussing a few of the factors contributing to more economic pork incomes. This series of meetings included Mt. Sterling, Walnut township, Perry township, and a general meeting in C. Circleville. One hundred hog raisers from over the county attended these meetings.

C. W. Hammons of the Rural Economics Department, O. S. U., discussed some of the important losses in the movement of hogs from the farm to the market. Mr. Hammons classified these losses into those occurring from bruises, from condemnations, from diseases, and from cripples and dead hogs.

Losses occurring from rough handling in loading hogs at the farm, many times causing a loss on a ham or some other part of the body. Hams are frequently discounted from eight to ten cents a pound on account of the trimming necessary from these bruises.

T. B. BIG LIABILITY

Losses from condemnations secured from the killing sheets of the federally inspected packing plants showed that 55.5 percent of the condemnations were due to T. B. Hogs do not naturally have T. B. They receive their infection from cattle or chickens which are affected with the disease. This emphasizes the importance of the present T. B. campaign which is under way throughout Pickaway-co. The losses occurring from crippled and dead hogs arriving at the principle Ohio terminal markets last year, represented a total loss of around $135,000.

Ohio hog raisers are experiencing three times the amount of losses through cripples, deads and shrinkage as is the Mich. Iowa and Illinois hog raisers in proportion to the number of hogs coming from each state into Ohio terminal markets. The losses experienced in Ohio from these losses are twice as great as those occurring in all the leading western corn belt market centers. The Ohio hog producer has the advantage of 75c a hundred on freight on the hog raisers from the western part of the corn belt by being that much nearer the population center.

PRODUCTION LOSSES

J. W. Wuchet, animal husbandry department, O. S. U., discussed these points contributing to losses in the production of pork from farrowing time to the market period. Mr. Wuchet classified these losses into losses occur-ing from disease infections, such as cholera, pneumonia, T. B., and bull nose. General sanitation and the immunization for cholera are the chief means through which the farmer may prevent this loss, he said. The second loss which is exacting a most severe toll is from parasites, chiefly the round worm. A program of sanitation is the most practical means of preventing the unthriftness and death occurring from round worm infection.

The third group of losses occur from improper feeding. Mr. Wuchet in discussing the importance of properly balanced rations illustrated the need of this through a comparison of the old and present day method of producing pork, a few years ago hogs were not put into the finishing lot until they were almost a year old. Today they are expected to be six months old. This fact indicates the importance of high protein supplements to the corn ration commonly followed. With tankage high, the average feeder is inclined to try to get by without using tankage. Experiences of leading feeders and demonstrations at the experiment station show conclusively that tankage must have a definite part in the ration when producing pork economically.

With hog prices looking upward the farmer who utilized the information available on economic feeding and the services provided through the cooperative marketing service, received a very favorable income from his hog enterprises this year. County Agent Lewis said.

COLUMBUS CHURCH

IS RAZED BY FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—The North M. E. church here, built in 1852, today was a charred mass of debris following the $75,000 fire that destroyed the structure yesterday. The blaze was discovered about 1:30 p. m. yesterday and four alarms were turned in before the conflagration was brought under control.

Many memorial and art glass windows were broken by the force of the water from the fire hose. An addition to the church, which was built in 1906, was also destroyed.

Although worshippers in the edifice detected the odor of smoke at the morning services yesterday, an inspection of the building revealed no fire at that time. It is thought that the blaze originated from an overheated furnace.

FINGER IS INJURED

Burl Hill, Maplewood-ave, fireman at the Pickaway Dairy Co., suffered a crushed finger on his right hand Saturday morning when it was caught in machinery at the plant. The injury was dressed by Dr. E. S. Shane.

PRIEST SLAIN IN CHURCH BY YOUNG MOTHER; DENIES GUILT

Woman, Charged Child Was
Mistreated, Fires Five
Shots.

CANTON, Mar. 11.—Arraigned before Judge U. S. Johnston in municipal court today on a charge of murdering Rev. Joseph A. Riccardi, 32, Mrs. Mamie Guerrieri pleaded not guilty and remained in the county jail without bond to await action of the county grand jury on first degree murder charges which stand against her. The arraignment was brief and without incident. A large crowd was in the courtroom.

The priest was shot twice and died late yesterday at Mercy hospital from loss of blood. Mrs. Guerrieri, a parishioner of the church, had waited in the vestibule until most of the other members had departed.

She spoke in a low tone to Rev. Riccardi, he answered her, and she suddenly drew a pistol from beneath her loose fitting cape and fired five shots. Three of the bullets went wild, one struck the priest in the abdomen and another grazed his neck.

SLAYER SURRENDERS

Rev. Riccardi was near the baptismal font, where he was to baptize a child, when the shooting began and he fell to the floor. Mrs. Guerrieri made no attempt to leave the vestibule. She brandished the pistol, which still contained one bullet, and threatened church people when they approached her, declaring "I'll kill you too."

In a death bed statement, Rev. Riccardi said the woman approached him and said, "I want to speak to you about my daughter, Galena." The priest said he replied, "I'm glad you've decided to send her back to school," and that a moment later the woman began shooting.

Following her arrest the woman talked freely. She said her five year old daughter, Galena, had complained that she was mistreated at the parochial school on two occasions, once on Jan. 26 and again on March 5.

Prosecutor Henry Harter, Jr., asked Father Riccardi before the priest died if he had been improper with the child and the young priest replied, "No! absolutely not."

CHILD EXAMINED

Mrs. Guerrieri asked that the girl be examined by a physician, and Dr. S. L. Agnoli declared, after examining the child, that he was convinced she had not been attacked. He said the girl was in normal health and physical condition and could not understand why her mother had insisted that she be examined.

Rev. Riccardi, whose parents live in Cleveland, was a student at the University of Rome, and was ordained in Rome in June of 1924.

Bishop Joseph Schrembs, of the Cleveland diocese, talked with Father Riccardi before he died. The Cleveland bishop declared it his opinion that the woman was demented and that she was the tool of enemies of the young priest who played on her emotions. Mrs. Guerrieri is the mother of four children.

St. Anthony's church has recently been moved and this stirred up opposition to Rev. Riccardi among some people. Bishop Schrembs said. Bishop Schrembs paid high tribute to the young priest, declaring he "was fighting for the upbuilding of a decent, clean living Italian colony in Canton, free from the influence of gambling places, bootlegging joints and infamous houses which infested the old location of the church."

DISTRIBUTION OF TAX MADE

Total For 6 Months Ending
March 1, Less Than Preceding Period.

The semi-annual distribution of taxes for the period of September 1, 1928 to Mar. 1, 1929, which has been made by County Auditor Bryce Briggs, is $32,101.89 less than the distribution for the six months' period ending September, 1928.

In 10 different items the distribution was less than at the preceding distribution. The greatest reduction was in the amount of taxes given to the state, being $17,740.22 less than in Sept. 1928.

The distribution of taxes for the period ending March 1, 1929, is as follows:

State, $9564.97; county, $36,114.77; poor, $4950; children's home, $4950; soldiers' relief, $330; blind, $3630; mother pension, $3630; election, $2640; judicial, $6270; county roads and bridges, $15,476.54; state roads and bridges, $18,571.80; auto license and gas tax, $11,992.49; sinking fund, $39,020.37; county health, $2175; county board of education, $2650; township schools, $165,402.01; district school, $79,277; township general, $10,074.24; township road, $41,171.07; corporations, $50,447.92; total, $508,339.06.

For comparative purposes, the distribution for the six months ending Sept. 1, 1928, is given as follows:

State, $27,305.19; county, $40,885.47; poor, $4500; children's home, $4500; soldiers' relief, $600; blind, $3500; mother pension, $3500; election, $3500; judicial, $6000; county roads and bridges, $16,014.61; state roads and bridges, $18,456.37; auto license and gas tax, $11,090.23; sinking fund, $42,936.22; county health, $2151.09; county board of education, $2700; township schools, $170,178.51; district school, $78,345.49; township general, $8892.25; township road, $41,409.73; corporations, $53,890.79; liquor, $55; total, $540,440.95.

YOUTH IS STABBED

IN DRINKING BOUT

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., March 11.—William Mahoney, 37, said to be a son of Police Inspector Patrick Mahoney of New York, was mysteriously stabbed early today in the apartment of Lenore Cosenova, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, culminating an all-night drinking party, according to a police report.

While young Mahoney was seriously injured, he is not expected to die. No arrests have been made.

DEFECTIVE FLUE

CAUSE OF BLAZE

A defective flue in the building occupied by the Red and White grocery of Ed Wolfe at Washington and Mound-sts. caused a roof fire at 9:35 a. m. Sunday. The damage, estimated at $50 is covered by insurance. The Hummel & Plum agency firemen were handicapped in fighting the blaze when a 50-foot section of new hose burst from the water pressure.

LINDY SPEEDS ON ROUND TRIP

Returns To Fiancee After Inaugurating U. S.-Mexican
Mail Line.

MEXICO CITY, March 11.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his fiancée, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, were united again today after a separation of less than two days during which the famous aviator inaugurated all mail service between this city and Brownsville, Texas.

He negotiated the 940 miles of the round trip in 10 hours and 38 minutes, taking 5 hours and 38 minutes on the northbound journey and 20 minutes less in returning.

On both trips he made short stops at Tampico. His tri-motored Ford plane carried nine passengers and several bags of mail each way.

Miss Morrow awaited the Colonel's return at 4:50 p. m. (E. S. T.) yesterday in a heavy rain and greeted him with a loving smile.

As usual, Col. Lindbergh had "nothing to say" to newspapermen who also awaited his return.

MADISON FARMER

DIES OF INJURIES

Funeral services were held Monday for Pearl Moody, 52, widely known Madison-co farmer and former manager of the Farmer's cooperative elevator at London, who died Saturday of injuries received Friday when he was thrown from a wagon of hay when it upset.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ethel Cryder Moody, one son and three daughters: William, Ruth and Martha Moody, at home, and Mrs. Ernest Wallery of Sedalia. He also leaves three brothers and two sisters.

MAJOR CLASH IS AVOIDED BY GEN. ESCOBAR

Insurgents, However, Claim
Important Gains On Other Fronts.

(BULLETIN)

MEXICO CITY, Mar. 11.—The rebel army under Gen. Escobar that occupied Torreon, on the Coahuila-Durango frontier, where a major battle had been expected was reported today to have evacuated the city.

Alarmed by the steady advance of two powerful federal armies under Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles and Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, the rebels were said to have retired into the state of Chihuahua.

(By International News Service)

With Mexican government officials claiming that the revolution has collapsed, a decisive battle was believed impending at Torreon, today between the main federal and rebel forces in northwestern Mexico.

Two armies under Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles and Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan were closing in upon the rebel army under Gen. Escobar which has been holding Torreon for the past six days. The federal commanders were confident that they would occupy the city with 15,000 men within the next 36 hours.

Gen. Calles' advance guard captured Canitas with 1,200 prisoners opening the way for a direct drive upon Torreon.

REBELS IN MUTINY
Mutiny broke out in the rebel army in Zacatecas. Many of the rebels deserted, going over to the federals.

The federal garrisons in the southern part of lower California joined the revolt and left to aid the rebels holding Mazatlan.

Part of the rebel garrison of Juarez has been sent to Torreon to reinforce the troops holding that city. The rebels at Torreon have erected defensive works and thrown up entrenchments.

Gen. Roberto Cruz, rebel leader on the west coast, is moving upon Manzanillo with the evident intention of trying to take Guadalupe and get in the rear of Gen. Calles' federal army of the centre.

The rebel army in Chihuahua is being strengthened fearing a double drive northward by the two main federal armies should Torreon be taken and the insurgents under Gen. Escobar take to flight.

GENERAL EXECUTED

The government has adopted a stern policy of repression towards the rebel chiefs. Gen. Vidal Lagunas, who threw his lot in with Gen. Aguirre, was captured, court martialled and shot at Alvarado, Vera Cruz.

Gen. Aguirre, who is in flight through the jungle of Tehuantepec, tried to bargain for his life. He was informed that he would have to stand trial before a court martial which is tantamount to a death sentence.

President Emilio Portes Gil is growing more and more confident that the federals will be in complete control of the republic shortly. His spokesman said he felt positive the revolt "is virtually over."

C. OF C. TO DECIDE

IMPORTANT ISSUES

Several important civic problems will be discussed at the regular weekly meeting of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening in the Masonic temple building. Members will also decide whether or not the meetings will be held semi-monthly instead of weekly and whether or not the time shall be changed from evening to noon.

WILL SPEAK HERE

Dr. Guy L. Morrill will be the guest speaker at the meeting of Presbyterian Missionary Society Tuesday afternoon in the social rooms of the church. All the ladies of the church are invited to hear him. Dr. Morrill has been conducting the campaign "Know Your Presbyterian Church" in the Presbytery of Columbus. He is associate director of stewardship for the general council of the church.

The second stop will be made at Wilby Hyde and Harley Mace, n, one mile south of New Holland, O., where there are 120 Hereford yearlings. These cattle have been receiving a full feed of cotton seed meal and two pounds of molasses feed. An interesting comparison on the use of molasses feed will be noted at a stop.

The third stop will be made at the John Boggs farm, southeast of Logan Elm and eight miles southeast of Circleville. Mr. Boggs is feeding 39 head of Angus long yearlings. They have had the heaviest silage ration of any of the cattle and their grain ration as consisted of barley and oats, affording an interesting comparison of the small grains with corn in the grain ration for beef production.

BANQUET ARRANGED

The feeders at each stop will explain the methods which they have followed and the cattle will be a demonstration of the results. The tour of inspection will wind up around 4:30 p. m. then the Cattle Feeders banquet will be served by the ladies of the Episcopal church at the Parish house on W. Fourth-st in Circleville. The banquet will be served at 6:30 p. m. A happy program and good music will keep interest enlivened. Dr. Carl Gay, head of the Animal Husbandry Department of the O. S. U., will be the toastmaster. L. P. McCann, livestock specialist; Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the Animal Husbandry Dept., Wooster, and J. C. Rector, president of the National Feeder Pool will each make an interesting contribution to the program.

Pickaway-co feeders will have a number of visitors from surrounding counties. The beef production in Pickaway-co represents close to 1 percent of local livestock income. With tankage high, the average feeder is inclined to try to get by without using tankage. Experiences of leading feeders and demonstrations at the experiment station show conclusively that tankage must have a definite part in the ration when producing pork economically.

With hog prices looking upward the farmer who utilized the information available on economic feeding and the services provided through the cooperative marketing service, received a very favorable income from his hog enterprises this year, County Agent Lewis said.

COLUMBUS CHURCH IS RAZED BY FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—The North M. E. church here, built in 1882, today was a charred mass of debris following the $75,000 fire that destroyed the structure yesterday. The blaze was discovered about 1:30 p. m. yesterday and four alarms were turned in before the conflagration was brought under control.

Many memorial and art glass windows were broken by the force of the water from the fire hose. An addition to the church, which was built in 1906, was also destroyed.

Although worshippers in the edifice detected the odor of smoke at the morning services yesterday, an inspection of the building revealed no fire at that time. It is thought that the blaze originated from an overheated furnace.

FINGER IS INJURED

Burl Hill, Maplewood-ave, fireman at the Pickaway Dairy Co., suffered a crushed finger on his right hand Saturday morning when it was caught in machinery at the plant. The injury was dressed by Dr. E. S. Shane.

PRIEST SLAIN IN CHURCH BY YOUNG MOTHER; DENIES GUILT

Woman, Charged Child Was
Mistreated, Fires Five
Shots.

CANTON, Mar. 11.—Arraigned before Judge U. S. Johnston in municipal court today on a charge of murdering Rev. Joseph A. Riccardi, 32, Mrs. Mamie Guerrieri pleaded not guilty and remained in the county jail without bond to await action of the county grand jury on first degree murder charges which stand against her. The arraignment was brief and without incident. A large crowd was in the courtroom.

The priest was shot twice and died late yesterday at Mercy hospital from loss of blood. Mrs. Guerrieri, a parishioner of the church, had waited in the vestibule until most of the other members had departed.

She spoke in a low tone to Rev. Riccardi, he answered her, and she suddenly drew a pistol from beneath her loose fitting cape and fired five shots. Three of the bullets went wild, one struck the priest in the abdomen and another grazed his neck.

SLAYER SURRENDERS

Rev. Riccardi was near the baptismal font, where he was to baptize a child, when the shooting began and he fell to the floor. Mrs. Guerrieri made no attempt to leave the vestibule. She brandished the pistol, which still contained one bullet, and threatened church people when they approached her, declaring "I'll kill you too."

In a death bed statement, Rev. Riccardi said the woman approached him and said, "I want to speak to you about my daughter, Galena." The priest said he replied, "I'm glad you've decided to send her back to our school," and that a moment later the woman began shooting.

Following her arrest the woman talked freely. She said her five year old daughter, Galena, had complained that she was mistreated at the parochial school on two occasions, once on Jan. 26 and again on March 5.

Prosecutor Henry Harter, Jr., asked Father Riccardi before the priest died if he had been improper with the child and the young priest replied, "no! absolutely not."

CHILD EXAMINED

Mrs. Guerrieri asked that the girl be examined by a physician and Dr. S. L. Agnoli declared, after examining the child, that he was convinced she had not been attacked. He said the girl was in normal health and physical condition and could not understand why her mother had insisted that she be examined.

Rev. Riccardi, whose parents live in Cleveland, was a student at the University of Rome, and was ordained in Rome in June of 1924.

Bishop Joseph Schrembs, of the Cleveland diocese, talked with Father Riccardi before he died. The Cleveland bishop declared it

15 ARE INJURED IN ELEVATED WRECK

CHICAGO, Mar. 11.—Fifteen persons were seriously injured and a score of others bruised when a west side elevated train crashed into another here today.

The rear car of the train, filled with downtown office workers, was telescoped.

Witnesses declare that one train was stationary at a station when the other, running at a fairly high rate of speed crashed into it.

SPORTSMEN WILL ELECT OFFICERS

The annual election of officers for the Pickaway-co Farmers and Sportsmen's Protective association will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday at the Elks temple in Circleville. Pans for a membership campaign will be considered and the proposed state conservation bill, for which amendments have been suggested to the legislature will be discussed.

CHILD IMPROVED

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. John Congrove, who moved to Columbus from Circleville several months ago, that their daughter, Marvina, who has been suffering from spinal trouble, is recovering at the Children's hospital, Columbus. She is expected to return to her home after April 1.

his opinion that the woman was demented and that she was the tool of enemies of the young priest who played on her emotions. Mrs. Guerrieri is the mother of four children.

St. Anthony's church has recently been moved and this stirred up opposition to Rev. Riccardi among some people, Bishop Schrembs said. Bishop Schrembs paid high tribute to the young priest, declaring he "was fighting for the upbuilding of a decent, clean living Italian colony in Canton, free from the influence of gambling places, bootlegging joints and infamous houses which infested the old location of the church."

DISTRIBUTION OF TAX MADE

Total For 6 Months Ending
March 1, Less Than Preceding Period.

The semi-annual distribution of taxes for the period of September 1, 1928 to Mar. 1, 1929, which has been made by County Auditor Bryce Briggs, is $32,101.89 less than the distribution for the six months' period ending September, 1928.

In 10 different items the distribution was less than at the preceding distribution. The greatest reduction was in the amount of taxes given to the state, being $17,740.22 less than in Sept. 1928.

The distribution of taxes for the period ending March 1, 1929, is as follows:

For comparative purposes, the distribution for the six months ending Sept. 1, 1928, is given as follows:

State, $27,305.19; county, $40,885.47; poor, $4500; children's home, $4500; soldiers' relief, $600; blind, $3500; mother pension, $3500; election, $3500; judicial, $6000; county roads and bridges, $16,014.61; state roads and bridges, $18,486.37; auto license and gas tax, $11,090.23; sinking fund, $42,936.22; county health, $2151.09; county board of education, $2700; township schools, $170,178.51; district school, $78,345.49; township general, $8892.25; township road, $41,409.73; corporations, $53,890.79; liquor, $55; total, $540,440.95.

YOUTH IS STABBED IN DRINKING BOUT

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., March 11.—William Mahoney, 37, said to be a son of Police Inspector Patrick Mahoney of New York, was mysteriously stabbed early today in the apartment of Lenore Coenova, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, culminating an all-night drinking party, according to a police report.

While young Mahoney was seriously injured, he is not expected to die. No arrests have been made.

DEFECTIVE FLUE CAUSE OF BLAZE

A defective flue in the building occupied by the Red and White grocery of Ed. Wolfe at Washington and Mound-sts., caused a roof fire at 9:35 a. m. Sunday. The damage, estimated at $50, is covered by insurance with the Hummel & Plum agency. Firemen were handicapped in fighting the blaze when a 50-foot section of new hose burst from the water pressure.

LINDY SPEEDS ON ROUND TRIP

Returns To Fiancee After In-
augurating U. S.-Mexican
Mail Line.

MEXICO CITY, March 11.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his fiancée, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, were united again today after a separation of less than two days during which the famous aviator inaugurated all mail service between this city and Brownsville, Texas.

He negotiated the 940 miles of the round trip in 10 hours and 38 minutes, taking 5 hours and 38 minutes on the northbound journey and 20 minutes less in returning.

On both trips he made short stops at Tampico. His tri-motored Ford plane carried nine passengers and several bags of mail each way.

Miss Morrow awaited the Colonel's return at 4:50 p. m. (E. S. T.) yesterday in a heavy rain and greeted him with a loving smile.

As usual, Col. Lindbergh had "nothing to say" to newspapermen who also awaited his return.

MADISON FARMER DIES OF INJURIES

Funeral services were held Monday for Pearl Moody, 52, widely known Madison-co farmer and former manager of the Farmer's Cooperative elevator at London, who died Saturday of injuries received Friday when he was thrown from a wagon of hay when it upset.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ethel Cryder Moody, one son and three daughters: William, Ruth and Martha Moody, at home, and Mrs. Ernest Wallery of Sedalia. He also leaves three brothers and two sisters.

MAJOR CLASH IS AVOIDED BY GEN. ESCOBAR

Insurgents, However, Claim
Important Gains On Other Fronts.

(BULLETIN)
MEXICO CITY, Mar. 11.—The rebel army under Gen. Escobar that occupied Torreón, on the Coahuila-Durango frontier, where a major battle had been expected was reported today to have evacuated the city.

Alarmed by the steady advance of two powerful federal armies under Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles and Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, the rebels were said to have retired into the state of Chihuahua.

(By International News Service)

With Mexican government officials claiming that the revolution has collapsed, a decisive battle was believed impending at Torreón, today between the main federal and rebel forces in northwestern Mexico.

Two armies under Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles and Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan were closing in upon the rebel army under Gen. Escobar which has been holding Torreón for the past six days. The federal commanders were confident that they would occupy the city with 15,000 men within the next 36 hours.

Gen. Calles' advance guard captured Canitas with 1,200 prisoners opening the way for a direct drive upon Torreón.

REBELS IN MUTINY
Mutiny broke out in the rebel army in Zacatecas. Many of the rebels deserted, going over to the federals.

The federal garrisons in the southern part of lower California joined the revolt and left to aid the rebels holding Mazatlan.

Part of the rebel garrison of Juarez has been sent to Torreón to reinforce the troops holding that city. The rebels at Torreón have erected defensive works and thrown up entrenchments.

Gen. Roberto Cruz, rebel leader on the west coast, is moving upon Manzanillo with the evident intention of trying to take Guadalajara and get in the rear of Gen. Calles' federal army of the centre.

The rebel army in Chihuahua is being strengthened fearing a double drive northward by the two main federal armies should Torreón be taken and the insurgents under Gen. Escobar take to flight.

GENERAL EXECUTED

The government has adopted a stern policy of repression towards the rebel chiefs. Gen. Vidal Lagunas, who threw his lot in with Gen. Aguirre, was captured, court-martialed and shot at Alvarado, Vera Cruz.

Gen. Aguirre, who is in flight through the jungle of Tehuantepec, tried to bargain for his life. He was informed that he would have to stand trial before a court martial which is tantamount to a death sentence.

President Emilio Portes Gil is growing more and more confident that the federals will be in complete control of the republic shortly. His spokesman said he felt positive the revolt "is virtually over."

C. OF C. TO DECIDE IMPORTANT ISSUES

Several important civic problems will be discussed at the regular weekly meeting of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening in the Masonic temple building. Members will also decide whether or not the meetings will be held semi-monthly instead of weekly and whether or not the time shall be changed from evening to noon.

WILL SPEAK HERE

Dr. Guy L. Morrill will be the guest speaker at the meeting of Presbyterian Missionary Society Tuesday afternoon in the social rooms of the church. All the ladies of the church are invited to hear him. Dr. Morrill has been conducting the campaign "Know Your Presbyterian Church" in the Presbytery of Columbus. He is associate director of stewardship for the general council of the church.

GLORIOUS HEALTH REPLACES TWENTY YEARS' MISERY

Noah Bowsher Thankful He Tried Spinago As Last Resort.

"Oh lucky day, when I discovered Spinago." This and similar exclamations are daily made concerning this new master tonic containing spinach by many Circleville residents whose homes have been brightened by health and happiness after taking Spinago. Glorious, new health has been brought to many residents of this and other cities after they had despaired of ever being themselves again. Just the other day Mr. Noah Bowsher who resides at the Main Hotel, Circleville and is employed by the Midwest Box Co., came into the Mykrantz Pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., Circleville headquarters for Spinago, and told how Spinago had relieved him after twenty years' unsuccessful doctoring and trying of many patent medicines. He went on to say: "Those twenty years of misery are not pleasant to recall. Dyspepsia, gas on the stomach and indigestion brought on practically continual sick headache. My appetite was very poor and eating was never a pleasure. Constipation caused me to feel drowsy most of the time. My vitality was so low that many times I was practically unable to get around. Several attacks of acute indigestion made my life miserable. I never knew when the next one was coming. During those twenty years, I was going to doctors all the time and trying one medicine after another, but my troubles didn't end. I had just about given up hope when I heard of Spinago and the wonderful relief it was giving others."

NOAH BOWSHER

At first I thought that it was just another patent medicine and I didn't pay much attention to the claims made for it. But finally, after hearing praise from so many people I decided that it couldn't do any harm to try it. It was sure a lucky decision for me, as my twenty years of suffering were ended by two bottles of Spinago. I can truthfully say that it is better than any medicine I have ever taken because it cured my constipation and put my digestive system in perfect shape. I am not troubled with dyspepsia or gas any more. No more sick headaches arising from these troubles has returned and I have more pep than I have had for twenty years. I enjoy my meals now and my appetite is fine.

"Any medicine that will do this much for me after twenty years of misery can surely help many others to enjoy life, and I want to heartily recommend Spinago to everyone who is troubled with any of my former complaints."

Again Spinago has scored in a stubborn case and has pointed the way to health and happiness to another sufferer of many years. And it has succeeded simply because it is a practical tonic based on a practical idea, that spinach is one most valuable of foods to aid digestion, cleanse and build up the system and to purify and enrich the blood. Spinach, recommended by physicians for many years to serve the human system by aiding the bodily functions mentioned above is the basic and most important ingredient of Spinago and is present in concentrated form in every bottle in sufficient quantity to contain all the beneficial elements in many pounds of green spinach. With this valuable ingredient, the manufacturers of Spinago have compounded ten roots, herbs and barks of well known medicinal and dietetic value to produce a tonic well balanced, palatable and efficient. Based upon such a formula, it is not surprising that Spinago can accomplish such feats.

SPINAGO is sold on an absolutely guaranteed basis, so it costs nothing to try it. The price is one dollar per bottle or five dollars for six bottles. And if one, two or six bottles do not produce the desired results, the money is cheerfully refunded. Why not try Spinago on this plan? You can't lose.

The C. A. C. basketball management as a grand finale to its basketball season is sponsoring the Central District Independent basketball tournament which will be held at the C. A. C. gym on March 13, 14, 15 and 16. The C. A. C. has two motives for sponsoring this tournament. First, the desire to give to Circleville and the surrounding territory an athletic treat; second, to make an effort to overcome the co-operation of 17 of the best basketball teams in the district, which are coming to this tournament at their own expense hoping to cop the central district championship and the coveted trophy that goes with it.

As a special inducement to basketball lovers and others to partake of this treat the club has made the price of admission within the reach of all by establishing an admission price of 35 cents for a single admission, or all tournament tickets can be secured of club members for $1. Never before has such an attraction been presented to the public of Circleville at such a nominal cost, and the least the C. A. C. can hope for is that the public will support the tournament and fulfill the confidence of the C. A. C. in its supporters.

The schedule of the preliminary rounds is as follows:

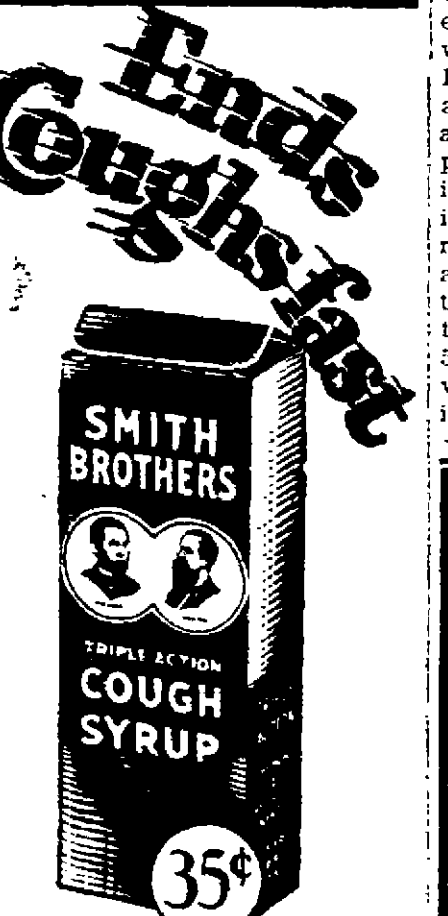

- WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13
- 7:00 p. m.—Sugar Grove Independents vs. Kingston Green Huskies.
- 7:45 p. m.—Carroll Independents vs. Lancaster Y. M. C. A.
- 8:30 p. m.—Circleville Gordon Tires vs. Circleville J. & P. Soils.
- 9:15 p. m.—Columbus Berney Bond Glass Co. vs. Ashville Walnut Tigers.
- 10:00 p. m.—Circleville A. C. vs. Millersport Jolly Rogers.
- THURSDAY, MARCH 14

LETTERS TO EDITOR

CHINESE ALMANAC

Editor The Circleville Herald:

I have written you several times and sent you paper idols. Now I am sending you a copy of my Chinese Christian Almanac and will tell a bit about it. It is in true Chinese style with the pages double because Chinese paper is thin. The paper is imitation Chinese paper. It is bound by hand and on the edges instead of at the folds of the paper as are home books. You should begin to read at the end-back of the book and read down instead of across and from right to left instead of from left to right and, Chinese fashion, tell others what you read. You may think this is all backward but the Chinese did it first so they will say that our method is all backward. This book is known all over China, in more than 10,000 places, well known as I have been preparing and publishing it for 26 years. I will tell you how I came to do so.

For years, as I itinerated through the cities and country of China, often there came a call for a book not in my list. I asked my help, "What is that book the Chinese ask for so much?" He said, "What book?" I said, "They call it a 'Wang Lih'." "That is an Almanac," "Well, the next time you see a Wang Lih, buy it. I wish to see what it is they are so crazy after." He bought a copy. I found it contained lucky days and unlucky days, when to get married and when not, when to build a house and when not, all kinds of superstitions, and assistance in gambling, fortune-telling, etc. I said, "What a pity Chinese cannot have something worth while when they get an almanac!" Later, as the call continued year after year, I prepared a useful almanac giving daily Bible verses, prayer-meeting topics, C. E. Topics, S. S. Lessons, anti-foot-binding and anti-opium articles, and messages showing the Way of Life and also much general information. I requested the Tract Society to publish it. They printed 5000 copies and, against my advice, charged five cents for it, selling but 2000 copies. After six months I asked them to let me sell the rest at two cents. Knowing the books would be left on their hands, they consented. I easily sold all. I urged that next year all be sold at two cents. "Can't do it, they cost much more than that." "Well, my time is too valuable to spend on a book to circulate but, 2000 copies, five cents is often a day's wage in China. If I get ads so that you can sell at two cents will you do so?" "Yes," I told the business men what I wished to do. They generously gave me their ads. That year we sold 25,000 copies. The next year I was home and only 11,000 were printed. The next year I was here again and 73,000 were needed, the next year 131,000, the next 161,000 and finally 300,000 were required. This almanac made the name of Hallock famous; but best of all, it made our Saviour known in thousands of places. Please put my almanac in your library so that all who can may read.

For several years past the sad war, that has made so many millions suffer at the hands of the fighting war-lords, has greatly added to the cost and difficulty of printing, and to the difficulties of business men, so that ads are much more difficult to obtain in sufficient numbers. Not only this; but the postal routes in many provinces have been made impossible because of fighting and bandits. So the almanac's publication and distribution have had to be cut down greatly; but we wait for better times when I hope even greater good can be done through this instrumentality. Pray for peace not only because of the almanac but for the sake of the innocent little children who inevitably suffer more than others in wars and fightings. I have a special place in my heart for these little Brownies as I have about 800 of them in my Ragged Sunday schools. Through the help of kind friends at home I gave more than $800 "yaller" kiddies a fine treat on Christmas day. We had a tip-top time! Kindest regards and best wishes for a Prosperous Year for you.

Yours in Christ's glad service,
(Rev.) H. G. C. Hallock

"FIRST AID" WEEK WILL BE OBSERVED

"Fill That Medicine Chest Now" Will Be Slogan For Event.

CHICAGO, March 11. — The Good Samaritan figures in the 1929 "First Aid—Home Remedy Week" and is designated as the "First First Aid." This annual merchandising festival arrives with St. Patrick's Day, continues March 17-23 and marks the eighth anniversary of the plan dedicated to Drugdom by Sterling Products, Inc. in 1922 and immediately sponsored by the National Association of Retail Druggists. Seeing the great advertising and sales possibilities in the plan and its helpfulness to humanity, the National Wholesale Druggists' Association has swung behind it with the enthusiastic suggestion that druggists use local newspapers, and providing them with suggestive advertising copy tied to the National Slogan, "Fill That Medicine Chest Now!"

Coming at a time when housewives are thinking of house cleaning, the command has added psychological sales value. Secretary S. C. Henry of the N. A. R. D., out of long experience says: "No one knows better than the average retail druggist how much needless suffering there is because

17 TEAMS TO TAKE PART IN TOURNAMENT

Central Ohio Independent Title Will Be Determined Here.

The C. A. C. basketball management as a grand finale to its basketball season is sponsoring the Central District Independent basketball tournament which will be held at the C. A. C. gym on March 13, 14, 15 and 16.

The C. A. C. has two motives for sponsoring this tournament. First, the desire to give to Circleville and the surrounding territory an athletic treat; second, to make an effort to overcome the co-operation of 17 of the best basketball teams in the district, which are coming to this tournament at their own expense hoping to cop the central district championship and the coveted trophy that goes with it.

As a special inducement to basketball lovers and others to partake of this treat the club has made the price of admission within the reach of all by establishing an admission price of 35 cents for a single admission, or all tournament tickets can be secured of club members for $1. Never before has such an attraction been presented to the public of Circleville at such a nominal cost, and the least the C. A. C. can hope for is that the public will support the tournament and fulfill the confidence of the C. A. C. in its supporters.

The schedule of the preliminary rounds is as follows:

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13
7:00 p. m.—Sugar Grove Independents vs. Kingston Green Huskies.

7:45 p. m.—Carroll Independents vs. Lancaster Y. M. C. A.
8:30 p. m.—Circleville Gordon Tires vs. Circleville J. & P. Soils.
9:15 p. m.—Columbus Berney Bond Glass Co. vs. Ashville Walnut Tigers.

THURSDAY, MARCH 14
7:00 p. m.—Hamden Merchants vs. Basmore Y. M. C. A.
7:45 p. m.—Commercial Point vs. New Holland Aces.

8:30 p. m.—Circleville Stags vs. Lockbourne Independents.
9:15 p. m.—Columbus Doyle Cleaners vs. winners of game No. 1.

WILSON'S CLOSE OUT SALE CONTINUES

Mr. Wilson announces that selling will continue throughout this week including Saturday. All merchandise has now been grouped on tables, in bins and shelves. The warehouses are empty and many new items found at the last minute are going in this final dash at a fraction of the cost.

Several stoves, some used, still remain to be sold. A large lot of paints, enamels, varnish and varnish stains are also still to be sold. Get busy, figure out your needs for spring (but a few days off) and stock up at cost. Household utensils by the thousands at 1-2 price and less. Large lots are grouped to make buying easy and plenty of extra help is promised to care for you promptly. Never before and possibly never again will an opportunity like this present itself. Come early and bank the savings. Adv-tf

CHINESE ALMANAC

Editor The Circleville Herald:

I have written you several times and sent you paper idols. Now I am sending you a copy of my Chinese Christian Almanac and will tell a bit about it. It is in true Chinese style with the pages double because Chinese paper is thin. The paper is imitation Chinese paper. It is bound by hand and on the edges instead of at the folds of the paper as are home books. You should begin to read at the end-back of the book and read down instead of across and from right to left instead of from left to right and, Chinese fashion, tell others what you read. You may think this is all backward but the Chinese did it first so they will say that our method is all backward. This book is known all over China, in more than 10,000 places, well known as I have been preparing and publishing it for 26 years. I will tell you how I came to do so.

For years, as I itinerated through the cities and country of China, often there came a call for a book not in my list. I asked my helper, "What is that book the Chinese ask for so much?" He said, "What book?" I said, "They call it a 'Wang Lih'." "That is an Almanac." "Well, the next time you see a Wang Lih, buy it. I wish to see what it is they are so crazy after." He bought a copy. I found it contained lucky days and unlucky days, when to get married and when not, when to build a house and when not, all kinds of superstitions, and assistance in gambling, fortune-telling, etc. I said, "What a pity Chinese cannot have something worth while when they get an almanac!" Later, as the call continued year after year, I prepared a useful almanac giving daily Bible verses, prayer-meeting topics, C. E. Topics, S. S. Lessons, anti-foot-binding and anti-opium articles, and messages showing the Way of Life and also much general information. I requested the Tract Society to publish it. They printed 5000 copies and, against my advice, charged five cents for it, selling but 2000 copies. After six months I asked them to let me sell the rest at two cents. Knowing the books would be left on their hands, they consented. I easily sold all. I urged that next year all be sold at two cents. "Can't do it, they cost much more than that." "Well, my time is too valuable to spend on a book to circulate but 2000 copies; five cents is often a day's wage in China. If I get ads so that you can sell at two cents will you do so?" "Yes," I told the business men what I wished to do. They generously gave me their ads. That year we sold 25,000 copies. The next year I was home and only 11,000 were printed. The next year I was here again and 73,000 were needed, the next year 131,000, the next 181,000 and finally 300,000 were required. This almanac made the name of Hallock famous; but best of all, it made our Saviour known in thousands of places. Please put my almanac in your library so that all who can may read.

For several years past the sad war, that has made so many millions suffer at the hands of the fighting war-lords, has greatly added to the cost and difficulty of printing, and to the difficulties of business men, so that ads are much more difficult to obtain in sufficient numbers. Not only this; but the postal routes in many provinces have been made impossible because of fighting and bandits. So the almanac's publication and distribution have had to be cut down greatly; but we wait for better times when I hope even greater good can be done through this instrumentality. Pray for peace not only because of the almanac; but for the sake of the innocent little children who inevitably suffer more than others in wars and fightings. I have a special place in my heart for these little Brownies as I have about 800 of them in my Ragged Sunday schools. Through the help of kind friends at home I gave more than 800 "yaller" kiddies a fine treat on Christmas day. We had a tip-top time! Kindest regards and best wishes for a Prosperous Year for you.

Yours in Christ's glad service, (Rev.) H. G. C. Hallock.

MOTHER!

Child's Best Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love its pleasant taste. Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

"FIRST AID" WEEK WILL BE OBSERVED

"Fill That Medicine Chest Now" Will Be Slogan For Event.

CHICAGO, March 11. — The Good Samaritan figures in the 1929 "First Aid—Home Remedy Week" and is designated as the "First First Aid." This annual merchandising festival arrives with St. Patrick's Day, continues March 17-23 and marks the eighth anniversary of the plan dedicated to Drugdom by Sterling Products, Inc. in 1922 and immediately sponsored by the National Association of Retail Druggists. Seeing the great advertising and sales possibilities in the plan and its helpfulness to humanity, the National Wholesale Druggists' Association has swung behind it with the enthusiastic suggestion that druggists use local newspapers, and providing them with suggestive advertising copy tied to the National Slogan, "Fill That Medicine Chest Now!"

Coming at a time when housewives are thinking of house cleaning, the command has added psychological sales value. Secretary S. C. Henry of the N. A. R. D., out of long experience says: "No one knows better than the average retail druggist how much needless suffering there is because

The Responsiveness Of the Individual Reader Establishes Circulation Value

The increase in the use of space, in THE HERALD and THE UNION-HERALD & WATCHMAN, by local advertisers indicates a growing appreciation of true circulation value.

The responsiveness of readers to advertising and their greater willingness to buy increases the value of newspaper advertising to HERALD and UNION-HERALD and WATCHMAN advertisers.

Advertising space is not bought on sentiment—and the increase in local advertising in February, 1929 over February, 1928 can only be interpreted as the result of obtaining results for advertisers, who find that FOOTBALL-BASEBALL or business, it's teamwork that makes for the fullest measure of efficiency . . . and certainly the management of a well-conducted household comes under the heading of business--Yes--a little teamwork in handling the family finances will very materially increase the buying power of the household dollar.

The clever Housewife who reads the newspaper ads every day discovers many unusual opportunities to save money--Occasionally, however, she finds it inconvenient to run down town on a shopping trip--That's where "Teamwork" can be made to play an important part in this household business.

Rather than lose out on the money saving possibilities of any special offering, she phones her husband or some other member of the family, to stop in and pick up the advertised article on the way home--This type of "Teamwork" pays big dividends.

STATE POLICE

The establishment of a co-ordinated state-wide police system is a proposition that American states will have to give very earnest consideration to before long.

Attorney General Stratton Shartel of Missouri, stressing the need for such an organization in his state, remarked the other day that we are now "using bows and arrows of capture against the machine guns of escape in dealing with criminals."

Then the attorney general outlined the way in which such an arrangement would be of value:

"It would be a flexible, law-enforcing agency. It could move quietly and quickly to the scene of trouble. It would not be balked by county or city lines. It would police and protect the state highways. It would outlaw the wild driver and the highwayman. It would harry and harass the thug and crook."

Those words are worth heeding. The subject is one that deserves most careful study.

HIS 100-000-MILE BICYCLE

The bicycle, once made a "craze" by eager Americans, has fallen upon evil days. The automobile has robbed it of its charms and its advantages. The "wheelmen's clubs" of our fathers' days are disbanded, not to be reorganized. But Harry W. Hadlow, of Geneva, N. Y., is as much of an enthusiast as he ever was. In 1899 he bought a bicycle. He still has it, and during the last 30 years he estimates that he has ridden it 100,000 miles. He pedals it to work daily; and although he has replaced all of its moving parts, and has bought many new tires, it is still the same old bicycle, good for many more miles.

Some may call this man old-fashioned; we're rather inclined to think he is pretty smart. Bicycling is good sport and good exercise; he has stuck to it despite the fact that it is no longer fashionable.

Living Things Thrive

Under Canopy of Ice

Life proceeds calmly enough within every pond and stream roofed over with its glassy canopy like a natural hothouse. Peer down through the clear ice and you will see the plants are green, though small, and that there are fishes gliding about. Their scales, however, show that they grow; but little now. There is enough to eat, but their appetite is poor.

The land snails spin storm doors athwart the opening of the shell, and, creeping into some secure crevice, become dormant; but the pond snails move about as usual, but build no new shells.

The small aquatic creatures still creep lazily over the fermenting mud or ensconce themselves in its depths. The water spider is wrapped in a glistening bubble of the air he took down with him.

All these tiny creatures of nature's underworld are at ease. There is no need now for activity. Little necessity for hunting or fleeing. Hunger is stilled, no energy need be expended in producing eggs or in the distress of molting; and so, like the plants, the animals lie still, recuperate from the waste of one summer and gather strength for the next.

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CALLING

"Let's go calling on Mr. Giant," said Peter Gnome. So the Gnomes all agreed and put on their high rubber boots and off they started. The rain kept pouring down and the snow was melting quickly.

"I hope," said one of the Gnomes, "that all the snow won't go." "If it does," whispered a little Snowflake, just before it was melted by a raindrop, "our old Snow King will see to it that we come again."

"We'll have one more snowy time at least."

"That's good," said the little Gnomes. "I love the snow."

"We all do," said Peter, "but today we'll enjoy the delicious slush."

They started off on their walk to Mr. Giant's Cave. They splashed through the melting snow-drifts and had a jolly walk.

Soon they arrived at Mr. Giant's Cave.

They knocked three times, and a deep voice said:

"Come in! Enter!"

In walked all the Gnomes, and how Mr. Giant did laugh when he saw their high rubber boots.

"Well, you're not afraid of a bad day," said Mr. Giant.

"It's not such a bad day," said Peter Gnome. "In fact, it's quite a good day."

"I don't consider a day naughty that gives us as much fun as this one does."

"I never heard before of a day being called naughty," said Mr. Giant.

"Well," said Peter Gnome, "you said it was a bad day, and a bad day, means a naughty day, doesn't it?"

"Perhaps," said Mr. Giant, "but it's not usually called naughty, that's all. Anyway, I like the day myself."

"Will you come and take a walk with us?" asked Peter Gnome.

"Delighted," said old Mr. Giant. Then Mr. Giant got his tall boots from a part of his cave.

They only made him look more enormous than ever and the Gnomes looked very tiny as they walked about him while he was putting on his great boots.

"Where are we going?" asked Mr. Giant.

"We're going to call on a little boy," said Peter Gnome, "who has been ill, and we're going to give him a dream play."

"It will seem to him that he can see us and that he is playing with us."

"We'll tumble and play in the slush and get all wet—and he will dream he is doing the same—such things as he cannot do now that he is ill."

So Mr. Giant and the Gnomes gave the little boy a dream play, and they heard from the Fairy Queen that he would be well for the last snowstorm of the season and the last slushy day—so that the dream would be real before the season was over.

But how much he did enjoy his dream—feeling so well in it and being able to play in so jolly a fashion.

Black and White

In this game the players have to stand in a line or ring, black and white alternately, each one to wear something black or white to show which side he is on. One of the players is the thrower and he stands to face the line.

The thrower shouts "Black!" or "white!"—sending the ball at the same instant to whichever color he calls. If "white" is called, and "white" catches it, "white" side scores 1. But if a "black" standing either side of the "white" catches the ball, "black" scores 1. The same, of course, if "black" is called and "black" or either "white" secures the ball.

No player must step forward to catch the ball. If he does that side loses a point.

Six points to a game. Three games to a set.

Can You Guess This

First of all I am a town in England, the best known of all in that country. After my first letter and I can be many things—first something you use at the table; secondly, something you eat at the table; thirdly, something you do; also something in a bottle. What am I?
Answer: York, Fork, Pork, Work, Cork.

Logical

The teacher in a fifth grade class was conducting a lesson in art appreciation, and the picture under discussion was that of an American Indian on horseback. "What are the trappings of an Indian?" asked the teacher. Loudly and confidently Edward replied: "Why, they're the things he catches rabbits and other animals with."

Few Stay-at-Homes

One reason why children don't get the home training they used to is because they refuse to stay around home long enough to be trained.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE ANNUAL NIGHTMARE

THEATRES

"THE DEVIL'S SKIPPER"

Belle Bennett and Montagu Love are starred in "The Devil's Skipper" at the Grand theatre tonight.

It is a powerful drama of modern life, of a fiend in human form who preyed upon his unsuspecting victims and used them as human dice. It is an intensely dramatic story. A fox news and a Universal comedy also will be shown.

ROMANCE OF THE SEA

"The Rescue," which opened at the Cliftona theatre Sunday night, is an event in motion picture history in several directions. It shows Ronald Colman to his public for the first time in the capacity of an individual star, it brings one of Joseph Conrad's romances to the screen for the first time in an important production, and it introduces a new film-charmer by the name of Lily Damita who seems fated to become one of the best-known actresses in Hollywood before she has finished her career.

Almost everyone knows the story of "The Rescue," which was Conrad's own favorite among all his novels. Colman is given the role of the English trader and freebooter in the Java seas, entangled in a web of native intrigue, and torn between his obligations to his native friends and his love for another Englishman's wife. Colman never appeared to better advantage than as the commander of the brig "Lightning," and he rang every change in the emotional potentialities of the role with mastery acting.

Lily Damita, Parisienne and blonde, deserves a whole paragraph by herself. Not only is her beauty quite distinct from that of any other film actress on the American screen, but her acting, always giving the impression of tremendous reserves of emotion underneath her movements and expressions, is of an entirely new kind, so far as this country is concerned. Duke Kahanamoku, the famous swimmer, Laska Winters and Phillip Strange also contribute excellent characterizations.

Futile Suggestion

Things continually come to remind us of how much lovelier and more satisfactory the world would be if each person kept his hands and tongue busy with his own work.—Hopkins (Mo.) Journal.

Mexico Torn By Revolt Again

Upper left: These troops, the Presidential guard in Mexico City, are reported to have remained loyal in the midst of the chaos of revolution below the border. Lower left: Although not uniformed impressively, these troopers are relied upon to fight loyally against the revolutionary hosts reported marching on the Mexican capital. Right: And this is one of the insurrectionists, according to reports. General Villareal, once a presidential candidate, is said to have joined the revolutionists and to have seized Monterey, industrial capital of Nuevo Leon, 150 miles from Laredo, Texas.

Impatient Griselda

by Dorothy Scarborough

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

IRENE ROBELINE was secretly in love with Guinn Holden, handsome young Texas minister. But Guinn married Lilith, a beautiful, gay and coquettish blonde, who died a year later when the second Lilith was born. Irene then marries Guinn, turning down Will Lundy, who was in love with her. For eighteen years she struggled valiantly as the wife of Holden to win his heart, but always she knew that he was really in love with the "white and gold" ghost of the dead Lilith. It was the grown-up Lilith, now out of college, beautiful as her mother had been, but selfish and cold, who succeeded to her mother's place in her father's heart. Tina, Ross, Lundy and Patricia, Irene's own children by Holden, were all secondary to the proud Lilith in everything in the parson's household. Tina wore her cast-off clothes at college and worked at home, while Lilith visited. When Lilith became engaged to Roger Devereaux, son of wealthy parents, Irene was happy. Tina, the Cinderella girl, would then have the luxury of the palatial parishioner dies leaving $2,000 to her father Lilith prevails upon him to let her postpone the wedding to have a year of vocal study in New York. Her letters told of her dreams come true—freedom, broadened horizons, the exhilaration of the great city that fascinated her. Then she met Vivien Winthrop, a beautiful rich society girl with "horse sense," at her music teacher's. Invited to dinner, Lilith captivates Mr. Winthrop, as well as the young men, with her negro songs, while she revels in the luxury of the palatial surroundings. Bill Chester, heir to a huge fortune, and engaged to an heiress, asks her to the opera a week later. Lilith is entranced.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXV.

A WEEK later she asked Vivien and Bill and Mr. Dickson to tea with her. A nuisance that the Deans would have to be included, but she must let these new acquaintances of hers know that she had suitable chaperonage. Tea was the only social gesture practicable for her under the circumstances, but she'd try to make it as attractive as she could. Ellen Dean had annexed a young man studying journalism at Columbia, a presentable and clever person, so he made an even number of young people.

The tea was a great success. Next time she'd contrive to have the Deans absent, now that they had been exhibited as guarantee of her respectability of background.

The Winthrops gave an Easter house party at their country place on Long Island, and Lilith was invited. The question of clothes gave her burning anxiety, but she collected enough of golden hair occasion by cleaning and pressing her best old ones and by picking up some crafty bargains in the shops. And anyway, she reasoned, it wouldn't be consistent for Cinderella to be too handsomely gowned. Her line was to be beauty and simplicity, and artless enjoyment of everything these rich philanthropists were offering. . . . and eyes wide open for the glass slipper that might appear at any moment. Her eyes were blue and clear behind her dark lashes, and they saw much.

Those eager eyes took in each detail of the house that seemed a palace to her. Her own bedroom was in lettuce green and orchid with French painted furniture and draperies in pastel shades, a perfect setting for a young girl, and just made to show off golden hair and peach-blossom skin. The bath-robe of iridescent tiles, with delft-blue curtains and one exquisite water scene on the wall, with all the accessories that imagination could suggest, made a comic contrast in her mind with the one bathroom with soiled cloth on the children dropped (Mother never could teach them to be neat), the old tub rusted in spots, the floor sopping wet half the time, the walls splattered from the boys' energetic showers.

It was beauty and ease in couldn't have beauty and ease in your daily life! Mother and Tina didn't seem to mind—or at least they didn't complain. But she had such longing for beauty that ugliness hurt her like a hair shirt.

Roger had money, compared to the parsonage standards. But now that she had glimpsed a life so different even from his, could she ever go back to what he could give her? Well, the year was still young. Maybe round the corner of some tomorrow the glass slipper might show up. . . . She arched her slender foot before her, admired its grace and smallness.

It was a big house party, chiefly of young people. Girls like a flock of chattering birds, gay of plumage, quick of motion, young men with sleek hair and boyish sophistication of manner, some handsome, but all looking as if they belonged to this leisured world of wealth.

Since this was perhaps the pick of them, must all be worth while. Lilith reflected as she lightly studied them. She scanned each one with the wistful eagerness with which a young girl with a heart to let see eligible young men, asking herself of them in turn, "Is he perhaps the one I've been waiting for? Can he give me romance and riches and love?"

After she had not obtrusively observed each of these young men, Lilith told herself, "I'm not sentimental. I could shade off the romance, if need be, to add to the riches."

A nobody from Texas was at such a disadvantage, with no chance to know the comparative bank accounts, the financial as well as social prospects. It was vulgar to think about money, much more so to speak of it, but a girl needed to know! What could she do? Well, keep her ears open for any slight hint which she might store in her memory as a squirrel tucks away nuts; be sure that she didn't put her eyes in her pocket.

He did not place her beside him at dinner, but she told herself that might be because he wished to avoid comment. A young man so rich as he was had to be careful to avoid conjecture, especially when he was engaged. How lucky that Sally Burton was in Paris! Sally might have had a secret instinct, too, to set her on her guard.

Lilith gave a quick wave of her hand.

but keep them clear and alert to see all she might.

She mustn't put herself forward in any way, mustn't antagonize these girls with rivalry; must be demure, appreciative, grateful—not too clever—not suggestive of danger to anyone else's plans. . . . Be Tina instead of Lilith for these few days, while the girls were watching her. Be Tina before the girls and maybe Lilith with the outsider who came up and away if not obviously.

She must beware. Everything had been so easy for her before, when it had come to winning men, that she perhaps was overconfident and might spoil her game. She must be canny and discreet, subtle where seeming naive. . . .

"My brains and looks and Tina's good little soul would make an irresistible combination. No?" she asked of her reflection in the mirror.

She had a flashing mental picture of Tina as she would perhaps be at the moment—in one of her own made-over dresses, her fingers smudged with ink, her hair a boyish untidy rumple, digging over her books because it was her duty to study and make good grades.

Some day she would give Tina the strict social discipline she needed, dress her to suit her own style, and bring her out to be a success. Tina had charm, but she had always been just part of the background for an older sister. It would be easy to be generous to Tina, when she had everything she wanted herself. . . .

"I'm a born sybarite," she said to Bill Chester, as they strolled through the rock garden with its flagstone paths, its artful waterfalls, its diverted pools where water lilies grew, its piles of rock where the gardener had planted the Alpine flowers that present y would be masses of color again to the gray boulders.

She gave a quick wave of her hand. "All this seems like home to me. I'm sure I'm a changeling, and somewhere the parsonage daughter is luxuriating on a yacht in the Mediterranean."

"Some pumpkin will trundle you home one of these days and carry you away to the court." He smiled his easy, boyish smile, that would have made him attractive if he hadn't had a penny to his grandfather's name, she reflected.

"Think what a lot of pumpkins there are in the world, Cinderella." "The ones that roll up to the parsonage are just that and nothing more," she said. Her blue eyes had suddenly a childish wisdom in them. . . .

Perhaps it was with the thought of giving some pumpkin a turn in her direction that Bill Chester invited the party to a dinner at his grandfather's country house a few miles away. Most of them stayed over an extra day for the dinner.

He didn't say that he was giving the dinner for her, and no one else entertained so much as a thought of that, but Lilith felt sure of it. A secret instinct told her, the magic sense that in the past had revealed to her much of young masculine emotion associated with her.

He did not place her beside him at dinner, but she told herself that might be because he wished to avoid comment. A young man so rich as he was had to be careful to avoid conjecture, especially when he was engaged. How lucky that Sally Burton was in Paris! Sally might have had a secret instinct, too, to set her on her guard.

The house was a marvelous marble structure filled with treasures that even Lilith's inexperienced eyes told her might well be museum pieces. She looked around at the treasures, and then at this young fellow who would one day possess them all, who seemed so boyish and blithely irresponsible, "tall and imperially slim," like Richard Corey.

After dinner, when the other guests were entertaining themselves for a while, he took her through some of the rooms to show her a few special pictures.

"Grandfather is a good deal of a collector," he said. "I'll have to bone up more on all these things myself. I'm infinitely ignorant. He says I'm spoiled as the devil, and have never put my mind hard on anything." His smile was rueful, apologetic, yet mischievously sure of forgiveness.

"Things have come too easily for you!" she accused him. "But I'm the only child—blast the luck! And so I got the concentrated indulgence that should have been spread out over half a dozen kids."

"You've never tried being one of five on an income not big enough for a grasshopper. You've never had to decide whether you'd have a new hat, or music for the month."

"No, that's so. And yet there are disadvantages in my position, too. Mother and Grandad expect such a hell of a lot of me because I'm all they have."

"With your position, and your possibilities—you can do anything, be anything, have anything that you wish!" There was a touch of envy in her tone, that gave it passion, a flash of fire in her blue eyes, a sudden flush to her cheeks.

He looked at her strangely for an instant, and then lowered his eyes. "I wonder?" he said slowly. (To Be Continued)

IMPURE FOODS NOW OFF MARKET

Adulteration Curbed by Laws of Nation and State, Say Officials.

Washington, March 11.—Food adulteration is now off the market, say officials of federal and state food control laws, and officials of the food, drug and insecticide administration of the United States Department of Agriculture when their attention was called to a reprinted press report on the subject that had been originally published 50 years ago.

Instances of adulteration cited in the press report include the molding of chocolate and of clay into the form of coffee berries colored and flavored to represent coffee; white stone ground into a fine powder and used to adulterate soda, sugar and flour; "terra alba," or white earth, for use in confectionery and cream of tartar, confectionery coloring material containing lead, mercury, arsenic and copper; cayenne pepper adulterated with red lead; mustard with chromate of lead; curry powder with red lead; vinegar with sulphuric acid and arsenic and corrosive sublimate; milk adulterated with water and artificial milk made synthetically which did not contain one drop of the genuine article.

Analyses Confirm Adulteration. It cannot now be determined, say the officials, to what extent these and other forms of adulteration prevailed throughout the food industry 50 years ago, but official analyses made prior to and since the enactment of the food and drug act of 1906 confirm some, if not all, of the forms of adulteration reported as being prevalent in 1879.

Initiation coffee berries made synthetically without a trace of real coffee are among the official samples collected before the enactment of the food and drug act, but still retained by the food, drug and insecticide administration as an exhibit of what the capacity of some few manufacturers would lead them to do when not restrained by the fear of the penalties imposed by food control laws. Artificially colored ground sawdust used to adulterate cayenne pepper is also among the exhibits illustrating the deplorable condition in the food trades in bygone days.

Unfortunately for the consumers and the vast number of honest manufacturers who put out good products most of these forms of adulteration no longer are practiced, though some may occasionally occur in isolated instances, say the food officials. The marked improvement in the quality, wholesomeness and truthful labeling of food products that has been brought about in the meantime, they say, is due principally to the enactment and enforcement of federal and state pure food laws, and to the increasing realization on the part of manufacturers that it is good business to put out only sound, wholesome products to the public.

Decide to Be Good. The exposure of adulteration prevalent 50 years ago, when the food law was passed, made sensational news stories. The spectacular contests between food officials and manufacturers who refused to clean up their factories and abandon profitable practices also resulted in widespread publicity.

As these sensational features became less frequent, and the food industries corrected their products and practices to comply with food control laws as clarified by court decisions and extensive scientific investigations, there has been a marked decrease in the news value of food control operations.

That constant vigilance of food officials is still necessary is evidenced by the fact that hundreds of seizures and prosecutions are made every year under the food and drug act. The adulteration found today affects the pocketbook more often than the health consisting principally of the substitution of a cheaper substance for some normal ingredient that costs more. Only occasionally is the public health jeopardized by adulteration.

As the result of effective enforcement of federal and state food laws during the last 20 years, the food products sold on the market today are freer from adulteration and misbranding than ever before.

"COMPLICATION IS QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA"

"Is a Wonderful Medicine," Says Grateful Man; Was First That Helped Him.

MR. S. J. T. GRADY.

"Konjola was just wonderful in my case, and I cannot recommend it too highly," said Mr. S. J. T. Grady, 3416 Hancock Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. "For a number of years I suffered from rheumatism, neuritis, indigestion and frequent attacks of gastritis. Then, too, my back had ached for years, and I had to get up frequently at night. The rheumatism and neuritis were particularly painful in my arms, legs, and shoulders. My general health was depleted, and I was in a badly run-down condition. I worried, too, over my failure to find relief."

"A friend of mine who had used Konjola, urged me to give this new compound a trial. Well, Konjola proved to be a veritable Godsend to me. Day by day my condition improved, and at the end of four weeks I was at the end of all my old health troubles that had bothered me for so long. I am sleeping fine. I can eat anything I want, and the back ache is no more. Even the rheumatic pains and neuritis have left me. I am feeling better than in five years, and it is easy for me to understand why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, Ohio, at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

FIVE POINTS

There will be the third quarterly meeting of the Sunday school workers of Monroe-twp in the M. E. church Sunday at 1:30. The township has four thriving Sunday schools. Let everybody go. Rev. W. W. Weiser and Rev. Rhodes will be among the speakers.

Rev. Rhodes has begun a revival at Darbyville M. E. church. Everybody welcome. The wind storm Wednesday night and Thursday, did considerable damage in this vicinity, blowing chimneys trees and some small building over.

The Monroe school will have a banquet for the high school basketball girls and boys in the evening. Watch for the date.

Job Reid and family have moved from the Baker farm near Five Points to a farm near Fox Post Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Baker and family moved from Grange Hall to their farm on the Circleville and Lancaster pike, recently purchased. We all regret losing such good citizens.

Adulteration Curbed by Laws of Nation and State, Say Officials.

Washington.—Eminent adulteration of many food products was widely prevalent before the enactment of federal and state food control laws, said officials of the food, drug and insecticide administration of the United States Department of Agriculture when their attention was called to a reprinted press report on the subject that had been originally published 50 years ago. The adulteration found today affects the pocketbook more often than the health, consisting principally of the substitution of a cheaper substance for some normal ingredient that costs more. Only occasionally is the public health jeopardized by adulteration.

As the result of effective enforcement of federal and state food laws during the last 20 years, the food products sold on the market today are freer from adulteration and misbranding than ever before.

American Engineer to Rebuild Nanking

New York.—An American consulting engineer sailed for China on the liner Roma to build a seaport and rebuild a city. He is E. P. Goodrich, who engineered the Bush terminal here and the Port Newark project, and who has been commissioned by the Nationalist government to build one of the largest ports at Canton and to rebuild the new capital city of Nanking. Each project will require an expenditure of from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000.

"COMPLICATION IS QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA"

"Is a Wonderful Medicine," Says Grateful Man; Was First That Helped Him.

MR. S. J. T. GRADY.

"Konjola was just wonderful in my case, and I cannot recommend it too highly," said Mr. S. J. T. Grady, 3416 Hancock Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. "For a number of years I suffered from rheumatism, neuritis, indigestion and frequent attacks of gastritis. Then, too, my back had ached for years, and I had to get up frequently at night. The rheumatism and neuritis were particularly painful in my arms, legs, and shoulders. My general health was depleted, and I was in a badly run-down condition. I worried, too, over my failure to find relief.

"A friend of mine who had used Konjola, urged me to give this new compound a trial. Well, Konjola proved to be a veritable Godsend to me. Day by day my condition improved, and at the end of four weeks I was at the end of all my old health troubles that had bothered me for so long. I am sleeping fine, I can eat anything I want, and the back ache is no more. Even the rheumatic pains and neuritis have left me. I am feeling better than in five years, and it is easy for me to understand why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, Ohio, at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

WASHINGTON TEAMS

HONORED AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leist and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Grice were hosts last night to a basket ball dinner for members of the boys' and girls' teams of Washington-type school. Mr. Grice is the coach of the boys' team and Miss Wendolene Reitor is the girls' team's coach. The affair which was held at the Leist country home was a birthday surprise for Mrs. Leist.

The guests found their places at two large tables, by means of yellow place cards. Yellow ornamental paper cups filled with white mint were favored at the tables. A large birthday cake Mrs. Grice occupied the center of the tables.

An elaborate two course dinner was served consisting of chicken, mashed potatoes, roast ham, deviled eggs, cranberries, celery, dressing, noodles, fruit jello, a variety of cake, coffee and mints.

Following the dinner, Mr. Grice acted as toastmaster, and letters and certificates were awarded to the boys. Miss Reitor as coach of the girls presented their letters and certificates.

LOCAL CLUB OBSERVES

SPECIAL WEEK

National Business Women's Week, which this community, in common with 1,000 other communities in the United States, is observing between March 10 and 16, 1929, is designed as a memorial to the achievements of pioneer business women and as a testimonial to what women are accomplishing in the world today.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which sponsors National Business Women's Week, is the largest business women's organization in the world, with more than 52,000 members located in 47 states of the United States and in the Island of Hawaii.

It has local clubs in nearly 1,000 cities and towns of the United States.

The Circleville club which is one of this number, opened the week's program by attending the evening services at the Presbyterian church. The "Seamless Robe" was chosen by Rev. Emil S. Toensmeier for the subject of his address in which he called attention to the dignity and blessing of work. Among those present were: Miss Marguerite Clark of the Columbus club and Miss Helen Morris of the Cleveland club.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory verse for Monday.

"The things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal" (11 Corinthians 4:18). (Read: 11 Peter 3:1 to 9)

MEDITATION: I love my church because it is old. Its worship links me with a mighty and sacred past. When we sing the old hymns I am "tuning in" with my sainted dead for generations back. These Scripture lessons have strengthened and comforted God's children through a troubled but triumphant history. These prayers in their phrasings-echo the yearnings of the devout in all ages. I think of these things and learn that while light dawns and opinions change my faith is venerable with an age incomputable. It has stood the terrible testing of time.

"O where are kings and empires now?

Of old that went and came?

But, Lord, Thy church is praying yet.

A thousand years the same."

PRAYER. God of my fathers who trusted in Thee and were not put to shame, I pray that Thou wilt preserve me from the illusions of this passing show and fix my heart in comfort and peace upon the unseen and eternal. Amen.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taggart and son Freddie visited relatives and friends in Circleville Sunday. Mrs. Taggart was formerly Miss Martha Trimble of Circleville.

Charles G. Shulze has returned to his duties as president of the Third National bank, after a severe illness with influenza.

H. P. Martin, district superintendent of the A. and P. grocery stores was a business visitor in Circleville Monday.

Mrs. V. T. Reber of Kenton's spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dresbach of E. Mound-st.

Mr. and Mrs. Denver Lutz of Amanda were shopping visitors in Circleville Saturday.

Mrs. Ollie Clark has returned from a business visit in Hicksville, O., where she conducts a branch store.

Attorney Meeker Terwilliger celebrated his 57th birthday anniversary in Columbus Friday, while attending a meeting of the Directors of the Capitol City Loan Co. The fact that it was his birthday became known among the directors and they entertained him to dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morner and son Billy from Hamilton, O. visited her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Pickens on Saturday.

Famous Leader Dead

Thomas Taggart, western Indiana Democratic leader, succumbed to a lingering illness in an Indianapolis hospital. Last September Mr. Taggart fell victim to a stomach ailment which baffled physicians. Since a week ago little hope was held out for his recovery.

LOCAL CLUB OBSERVES SPECIAL WEEK
National Business Women's Week, which this community, in common with 1,000 other communities in the United States, is observing between March 10 and 16, 1929, is designed as a memorial to the achievements of pioneer business women and as a testimonial to what women are accomplishing in the world today.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which sponsors National Business Women's Week, is the largest business women's organization in the world, with more than 52,000 members located in 47 states of the United States and in the Island of Hawaii.

It has local clubs in nearly 1,000 cities and towns of the United States.

The Circleville club, which is one of this number, opened the week's program by attending the evening services at the Presbyterian church. The "Seamless Robe" was chosen by Rev. Emil S. Toensmeier for the subject of his address, in which he called attention to the dignity and blessing of work. Among these present were Miss Marguerite Clark of the Columbus club and Miss Helen Morris of the Cleveland club.

HAPPY SURPRISE FOR DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Albright of Watt-st opened their home Friday night to a congenial group of friends who had planned a very clever surprise for their daughter, Ruth. The occasion honored the 19th anniversary of her birthday. Lively games and music were the diversions of the first part of the evening, following which a delectable lunch was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richard and daughter, Fern Marjorie, Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Albright, Mrs. Laura E. Camp, Miss Cora Hampshire, Miss Alma Glick, Miss Marguerite White, Miss Florence Camp, Miss Dorothy Glick, Miss Marie Morshauser, Miss Georgia Leist, Miss Beatrice Hanley, Miss Ruth Albright, Ralph Leist, Paul Elliott, and Dan Albright.

The hour was late when the guests finally took their departure, as they all wished the guest of honor many more happy birthdays.

Graphic Outlines of History

Balboa Discovering the Pacific
Balboa, a young Spanish adventurer, fired with the ambition of discovering a great ocean to the west where gold was said to be plentiful, set out with about two hundred men and supplies. In 1513, leaving his men at the foot of a peak in the mountains, he reached the top, and there, gazing with awe upon the mighty Pacific, thanked God for his discovery.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Monday.
"The things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal" (11 Corinthians 4:18). (Read: 11 Peter 3:1 to 9.)

MEDITATION: I love my church because it is old. Its worship links me with a mighty and sacred past. When we sing the old hymns I am "tuning in" with my sainted dead for generations back. These Scripture lessons have strengthened and comforted God's children through a troubled but triumphant history. These prayers in their phrasings-echo the yearnings of the devout in all ages. I think of these things and learn that while light dawns and opinions change my faith is venerable with an age incomputable. It has stood the terrible testing of time.

"O where are kings and empires now
Of old that went and came?
But, Lord, Thy church is praying yet,
A thousand years the same."

PRAYER: God of my fathers who trusted in Thee and were not put to shame, I pray that Thou wilt preserve me from the illusions of this passing show and fix my heart in comfort and peace upon the unseen and eternal. Amen.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taggart and son Freddie visited relatives and friends in Circleville Sunday. Mrs. Taggart was formerly Miss Martha Trimble of Circleville.

Increase the Food Value of Your Meals By Eating More Bread

Your Grocer The Family Cupboard

Years ago, three barrels of potatoes in the family cellar, eggs from one's own chickens, milk from the neighbor's cow, exchanging the tomatoes grown in one's own garden for the string beans grown in a neighbor's, and baking one's own bread, were usual occurrences.

But where is the family cellar today? Where is the pantry shelf?—The neighborhood grocer. your grocer is your family cupboard.

He chooses the best from all the foods that are made and grown and has them ready for you whenever you need them.

Wallace's Twin-Loaf Bread has taken the place of home-made bread in Circleville, and your grocer expects you to ask for it.

HARD WATER PLUS MELO MAKES SOFT WATER.

Mfg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Washes woollens and blankets!

WHEN you wash with hard water there's a dirty ring around the edge of the basin, but that's not suds. It's scum. The hard water is doing that. It's mixing with the soap to form a dirty curdle. Can't wash woollens and blankets in that water.

Softens the water with Melo. Then add soap. The water is now a very fine cleansing agent and the soap is much more effective. Melo did that. Get a can today at your grocer's.

LOANS UP TO $500

The best part about winter is that spring follows close behind. We all look forward to the coming of spring. It's planting time, building time and a busy time for everybody—including The City Loan.

Hundreds of farmers use this Loan service, made especially for them, to take care of their springtime needs, and that makes things hum at The City Loan. They borrow enough money on their own kind of terms to buy seed and live stock and implements and to build and re-fence and keep things in order.

But regardless of your occupation, whether you are a farmer or just any busy person you'll want the convenience and satisfaction of dealing with The City Loan whenever it becomes necessary to borrow.
